

A Tribute to Tony

Saint Joseph's College paid tribute to Butler's Tony Hinkle February 21 when he visited Alumni Fieldhouse for the final time. After 49 years, the great Butler coach is retiring, leaving behind him more than 1,000 aggregate victories in football, basketball and baseball. Tony, shown here with SJC's Coach Jim Holstein, received a standing ovation from the huge crowd which had squeezed into the fieldhouse for what turned out to be the most thrilling game of the season. The Pumas won on a last-second shot, 79-77.

Band May Go From Rags To Riches; Asks Alumni Help In Raising $14,000

Next year's marching Pumas may have a new look to complement their new sound provided Band Director Gary Smith can raise $14,000.

That's the price tag on 100 new uniforms, and at a time when the College is concerned with building a much needed water treatment plant, increasing scholarship aid and planning for a new library-learning center, band uniforms rate low on the priorities list.

But Smith believes the new uniforms are essential because of the music department's wide exposure to the public. The marching band, glee club and concert band frequently perform at high schools throughout the midwest, on college campuses and in concert halls. During the coming summer the music department will make a performing tour of Europe.

The present band uniforms are 14 years old whereas the average wear, according to Smith, is only 7 years. He states that the "costumes" are obsolete, cannot be altered for different sizes and are impossible to replace or repair because of their out-moded style.

The type of uniform which Smith would like to buy is designed to serve a dual purpose. It can be used by the marching band or, by removing a vinyl overlay, it can be converted to a tuxedo for the concert band and glee club. The new uniforms are easily altered to fit different sizes and are less expensive to maintain.

Another problem is that Smith doesn't have enough uniforms for all band members. Last year he enlisted 57 students for the band, and this year the number is up to 70. His projected enrollment for next year is 90, and Smith claims it is impossible to buy more uniforms of the present type.

After two years at Saint Joseph's, the youthful Smith has become something of a miracle worker by instilling enthusiasm and professionalism into the band. During the past year band members have been selling candy and saving trading stamps, but it may take Smith's best miracle yet to raise the $14,000.

The Alumni Fund is one possible source for additional funds. If the Alumni Board of Directors approves it at the March 21 meeting, all unrestricted alumni donations above the $50,000 Alumni Fund Goal will go toward the cost of the new uniforms. With less than 5 months remaining in the current campaign, alumni have so far contributed $26,000.

College Planning For More Coed Housing

Fr. Edward Joyce, vice-president for development, reports that the College plans to convert one of the men's dormitories on campus to coed housing in time for next semester.

"It is almost certain," Fr. Joyce says, "that next fall's coed enrollment will surpass the number we can now house on campus." The newest dorm, Justin Hall, is the only women's residence hall on campus and has facilities for 250. Only a few rooms are now vacant, and since most of the coeds are freshmen and sophomores, a large number will be returning next year.

Fr. Joyce states that the dorm which is selected for conversion will depend largely on the number of new coeds who indicate their intent to enroll and on the size of the rooms in the dorm.

Final selection, provided it is necessary, will be made this spring.

Prayers Requested

The Alumni Association requests your prayers for all alumni serving in Vietnam, especially for Larry Stark '57 who has been a prisoner of war since January, 1968. Also please remember the families of many alumni who have lost their lives or have been seriously wounded in service to their country.

Scholarship Dinner Scheduled April 10

The trustees of Saint Joseph's College have announced their plans for a Scholarship Dinner to be held April 10 at Chicago's Ambassador West Hotel. Proceeds from the dinner will be used to provide academic scholarship funds for the College.

James A. Bourke, College trustee and a vice-president of the First National Bank of Chicago, is chairman for the dinner. Bourke states that the dinner could produce as much as $30,000 for the scholarship fund.

The College has been faced with the need to increase scholarship aid for the past several years. During the past decade, enrollment increased by more than 40% while the amount of College-funded scholarships remained static. In order to make more money available for deserving students, the trustees decided last spring to sponsor the dinner.

The Scholarship Dinner is an expansion of the five previous President's Dinners, sponsored by alumni and friends of the College, which were not fund-raising events.

A tax-deductible contribution of $100 will entitle each donor to one complimentary ticket to the dinner. Since the dinner is designed to raise new funds for the College, the trustees are asking that members of the Fellows Program who attend the dinner not consider their contribution as part of their Fellow's subscription.

The trustees and the College are seeking support for the dinner from alumni, parents and friends of the College, and they hope to receive a large number of donations from Chicago business firms.

The dinner (formal attire) will begin with cocktails at 6 p.m. For further information, write Fr. Edward Joyce, vice-president for development at Saint Joseph's.

DINNER CHAIRMAN—Chairman of the SJC Scholarship Dinner is James A. Bourke, member of the Board of Trustees.

Cold Weather Doesn't Stop Alumni

The temperature on each of the four nights was between zero and -16. In the suite on the top floor of the Sheraton-Chicago, it was perhaps a little warmer.

There, from January 18 through 21, a total of 23 alumni made long-distance calls to Miami (78 degrees), San Diego (67 degrees) and Galveston (58 degrees). The purpose of the calls, over 600 of them, was to solicit support for the 1970 Alumni Fund from alumni across the nation.

The first SJC alumni phone-a-thon was initiated in 1963 in conjunction with the College's Diamond Jubilee campaign. That first phone-a-thon was in Chicago, and within the past two years alumni in other cities—Milwaukee, Fort Wayne, Hammond and Cincinnati—have started their own phone-a-thons. This year, five phone-a-thons involving more than 50 alumni volunteers have been scheduled.

The January phone-a-thon in Chicago was under the direction of Keith Snyder '56, alumni vice-president for financial support. It raised a total of $10,286 for the College from 503 alumni donors. Four out of every five alumni called made a gift to the Alumni Fund, and two alumni became Fellows, bringing total pledges to over $12,000.

Some of those who did not pledge cited such reasons as "tight money" and students on campus who wore long hair. ("But, sir, Saint Joseph's is co-ed now. Are you sure those weren't girls you saw at homecoming?")

The phone-a-thons are just one phase of the Alumni Fund campaign. With the help of mail appeals, prepared by Tom DeMint '59, and personal calls made by members of the College's staff, the Alumni Association hopes to raise more than $50,000 in alumni contributions.

ALUMNI IN ACTION—Thirteen of the 23 alumni who braved the cold of January's phone-a-thon appear here. They are: Jerry Walker '59, Mike Brown '65, Jerry Roseland '65, Larry Yost '68, Chuck Ryan '65, Chuck Vietzen '57, Dick Rezek '57, Keith Snyder '56, Mike Trotta '69, Wally McGovern '69, Pat Lavery '59, Joe Gurgone '59 and Joe Matlon '59. Other alumni who called were: Skip Braband '69, Phil Calcott '66, Greg Czarnowski '65, Tom Garvey '65, Jack Halpin '65, John Hartford '65, Bob Lippie '60, Jim Madden '64, Wally McLaughlin '65 and "Huck" Quigley '66.

The Rewards Of Victory

The National Scene

Introducing the "Newspage": designed to help readers keep up in an eventful decade

■ Quiet Spring? In marked contrast to the wave of student unrest they experienced last spring, the nation's colleges and universities were fairly quiet last semester. Observers wonder: Will the calm continue in 1970 and beyond? There are signs that it may not. Ideological disputes have splintered the radical Students for a Democratic Society, but other groups of radicals are forming. Much of the anti-war movement has drifted off the campuses, but student activists are turning to new issues—such as problems of the environment and blue-collar workers. A nationwide survey of this year's freshmen, by the way, shows them to be more inclined than their predecessors to engage in protests.

■ Enter, Environment: Air and water pollution, the "population explosion," ecology—those are some of the things students talk about these days. The environment has become the focus of widespread student concern. "Politicization can come out of it," says a former staff member of the National Student Association who helped plan a student-faculty conference on the subject. "People may be getting a little tired of race and war as issues." Throughout the country, students have begun campaigns, protests, even lawsuits, to combat environmental decay. Milepost ahead: April 22, the date of a "teach-in" on the environment that is scheduled to be held on many campuses.

■ Catching Up: Publicly supported Negro colleges, said to enroll about a third of all Negroes in college today, are pressing for "catch-up" funds from private sources—corporations, foundations, alumni. Their presidents are telling prospective donors: "If you don't invest in these colleges and make it possible for Negroes to get an education, you will be supporting them on the welfare rolls with your taxes." Coordinating the fund-raising effort is the Office for the Advancement of Public Negro Colleges, Atlanta, Ga.

■ Nonresident Tuition: An Ohio woman married a resident of California and moved with him to that state. When she enrolled in the state university there, it charged her $324 more per quarter than it charged California residents. Unfair? The woman said it was, and asked the courts to declare the higher fee unconstitutional. State courts dismissed her challenge and now their judgment has been left standing by the U.S. Supreme Court. The decision suggests that an earlier ruling of that court, which overturned state residence requirements for relief applicants, does not apply to higher education. Nearly 800,000 students are thought to be enrolled in colleges outside their home states.

■ Money Trouble: Many members of Congress favor more federal funds for higher education, but President Nixon balks at the notion. He vetoed the 1970 appropriations bill for labor, health, and education on grounds its was inflationary, and the lawmakers failed to override him. Further austerity is signaled by the President's budget for 1971. He wants to phase out several programs of aid to colleges and universities, hold back on new spending for academic research, rely more on private funds. In the states, meanwhile, the pace of public support for major state colleges and universities may be slowing, according to reports from 19 capitals. Overall, state appropriations for higher education continue to grow, with much of the new money going to junior colleges.

■ Foundation Tax: Exempted for decades from federal taxation, the nation's private foundations must now pay the government 4 per cent of their net investment income each year. Congress requires the payment in its Tax Reform Act of 1969, which also restricts a number of foundation activities. One initial effect could be a proportionate cut in foundation grants to colleges and universities. Foundation leaders also warn that private institutions generally—including those in higher education—are threatened by federal hostility. The new act, says one foundation executive, reflects an attitude of "vast indifference" in Washington toward the private sector.

■ Double Jeopardy: Should a college's accreditation be called into question if it experiences student disruption over an extended period of time? In some cases, yes, says the agency that accredits higher education institutions in the mid-Atlantic states. Although it won't summarily revoke a college's accreditation because of disruption by "forces beyond its control," the agency does plan to review cases in which an institution suffers "prolonged inability to conduct its academic programs."

Letters to the Editor

The Readers Write

Dear Sirs:

Please be advised that I am in receipt of your brochure relative to the Alumni Fund ("Announcing the 1970 Student"). I have contributed to this Alumni Fund almost every year, but upon reading this brochure, I do not intend to contribute for the present year.

I do not know who is in charge of writing this pamphlet but whoever is in charge of it doesn't understand the Alumni Association. It certainly will not go over very big with people my age who were in the last war. Anytime I read anything about "peace," "peace unions" or "studying the peace," it all adds up to me that, Vietnam War or not, some young people do not want to contribute anything but a platform in which to announce some peace program. I especially note that even though the war in Vietnam has some question marks, still it is the policy of this country and I live here with my family. I believe in the defense of my family and my country even if it means taking other lives or the loss of my own life, and I don't believe in studying about it, nor erecting any building nor forming any union regarding the same. The opposition to the Vietnam War is merely a front for "peace-at-any-price" proposers, and I'll contribute to none of it.

I attended Saint Joseph's for two years and have always liked the school and, as a matter of fact, have two children attending the school now. I might have a third next year, but I'll not contribute to an alumni fund that starts out with the same old daily routine of Vietnam War policies—it makes me sick to my stomach. I think the brochure was in bad taste. I will probably contribute in the future, but not under the circumstances in which this request was made.

Notes from the Editor

by Robert Lofft '66

"Some persons may not be standing for the National Anthem out of protest against past and present injustices in this country. The College respects their right of dissent. We hope that you will do the same."

When the above statement was read over the public address system at last October's homecoming game, some alumni understood the reason for it, many more were puzzled and a few were enraged.

The announcement was requested by the College's Human Relations Committee, a group of four administrators, three faculty members and four students who report directly to the president. The committee was established last year with a view toward anticipating, detecting and alleviating problems between black and white students, male and female students, between town and College and between the students and the faculty or administration.

According to the minutes of the committee's October 14 meeting, four days before homecoming, the members were concerned about the Black Student Union's plans to remain seated during the National Anthem at the game. The committee believed this form of protest could result in harassment and possibly a disturbance. It is a form of dissent which has been present for sometime on the Saint Joseph's campus, and on other campuses as well, and it continues to exist. The announcement had never been made before, nor has it been made since, but because of the particular atmosphere which prevails at homecomings, the committee advised the president to have the statement read to prevent any outbreaks.

President Banet later emphasized that the College was only protecting the right of the students to dissent, and the pre-game announcement in no way implied endorsement of their actions. The announcement was not made to encourage people to remain seated, but only to remind them that those few who do so are acting within their rights under law.

As pointed out at a recent open meeting of the Human Relations Committee, attended by several students and faculty members, the problem centers around interpretation of the meaning of the American flag. If the flag represents America as it is, with racial discrimination still apparent, refusing to stand for the National Anthem may be understandable. But for many the flag represents the principles of American democracy with the hope that these principles will one day be held by all Americans. For these people, the actions of the dissenters are offensive.

Those who do not stand for the National Anthem may not be as unpatriotic as they seem. They may not love America as it is, but rather than leaving it, they would like to change it, to make it more of an America. But if anything, their actions, because they are held offensive by so many, lose rather than gain support for their causes.

Nevertheless, their right to protest is legitimate, and to deny this right would be to deny yet another principle for which the flag stands. Some may argue that its ironical for the dissenters to remain seated for the very flag which permits them the freedom to protest, but no one can deny that racial justice is not yet, in practice, one of America's most glorious hallmarks.

Newslines

Items of interest about Saint Joseph's College, the alumni, the faculty, and the students.

● "I" Program: A new activities program has been initiated by the SJC Student Association. The "I" Program, according to S.A. President Bill Holda '71, is a plan for halls and clubs to sponsor weekly activities, both social and academic, throughout the second semester. The program includes movies followed by discussions, lectures by faculty members on current topics, pizza parties and talks by guest speakers. What does "I" stand for? "Ideas, involvement and individuals," says Holda.

● Dubious Honor: The Indiana Pacers' trainer, Bernie Lareau '61, has set a new record in the American Basketball Association. Lareau leads the ABA in times ejected from a game (2) for trainers. Before joining the Pacers in 1967, mild-mannered Lareau was head trainer for Saint Joseph's athletic teams and had previously been on the Chicago Bears' staff for three years. He was recently featured in an article which appeared in the Indianapolis Star.

● Outstanding Alumnus: Terence F. MacCarthy '55, a Chicago attorney, has been selected for the 1970 edition of Outstanding Young Men of America, an annual publication of the nonprofit Outstanding Americans Foundation. Last September, he was honored by the Chicago Jaycees as one of the ten outstanding young men in the metropolitan area. He is executive director of the Federal Defender Program in Chicago and also administers a neighborhood youth corps program for high school drop-outs.

● The Freshman Four: The freshmen have elected Sam Facen, a psychology major from Hammond, as president of their class. He is the first black student ever elected to class presidency at Saint Joseph's. Also elected were Miss Jan Garbon of Cincinnati, vice president; Mike Petrovich of Hammond, treasurer; and Miss Mary Ann Kauffmann of Louisville, secretary.

● NSF Grant: Saint Joseph's has received a $10,158 National Science Foundation grant which will be used largely for the purchase of laboratory equipment instrumental in developing a major field of study in physics. Thirteen other foundations have made grants totaling $14,815 to the College since last August.

● Alumni Fund: The 1970 Alumni Fund is half-way to its goal of $50,000. Alumni Vice President Keith Snyder '56, chairman of the campaign, emphasizes that every donation, no matter how small, is a big help since corporations and foundations often consider the percentage of alumni who contribute an important factor when making grants to the College. The official campaign period ends May 30, and the fiscal year ends July 31.
